Elvis Dies

Elvis Presley, known as the king of rock 'n roll, died Tuesday at Baptist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. He was 42.

Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said the cause of death was "respiratory failure" — problems with breathing.

Elvis became a national legend as a singer before he turned 25. His albums were the fastest-selling in history. They made him rich and made him famous in nearly every corner of the world.

Elvis changed music history with such songs as "Hound Dog," "All Shook Up," "Don't Be Cruel," and "It's Now Or Never."

He wore long sideburns and tight pants. When he sang and played guitar, he moved his hips a lot.

Elvis Presley owned five Cadillacs. They were painted pink, white, blue, yellow and gold. He had a house in Memphis and a palace in Bel Air, Calif. They are equipped with pinball machines, pool tables and jukeboxes. Story on Page 1.
